

NATO - Gen

11/11/60 Chancery

Foreign Service of the United States of America

OUTGOING

CLASSIFIED

SECRET

Classified State

Classification

Control No. 471

Exhibit Sept 10, 60
8:08 PM

P R I O R I T Y

THURSTON 2

SENT: SECSTATE WASHINGTON PRITY 1024

RPTD INFO: BONN PRITY 45 LONDON PRITY 176

NOFORN FROM THURSTON

L I M I T E D D I S T R I B U T I O N

General Norstad gave me following account his lunch yesterday in Italy with Adenauer,

Lunch and discussion afterward lasted four hours. Chancellor was in firm form, and he set sharp, vigorous tone for exchange of views.

COS 4
POL 4
DEF 4

23

CLASSIFIED

CONFIDENTIAL

ACTION FROM THIS AGENT IS PROHIBITED UNLESS "UNCLASSIFIED"

DECLASSIFIED WITH DELETIONS

Agency Case No. 9202075

NLE Case No. 12-20741

By [Signature] NLE Date 11/11/62Norstad 11/11/60 11/11/60 / 90 / NATO General
(4)

CONFIDENTIAL - COMINT
COMINT - COMINT

CONTINUED

Chap 34

COMINT

Contract #71

Bonus

Page 2

Norstad intervened to correct record at this stage going back over Sixth Fleet question, US efforts to consult with France on African problems in past two years, and fact that integration did not vitiate national units. He said it was the delicate point of atomic control that underlay withdrawal of US strike squadrons from France. Spaak complained that NAC never really told whole story on this.

Norstad expressed belief that US people are not going to turn over atomic weapons to any country for independent use and added that he personally shared this popular sentiment. He said that US could not base its policy on this important question on the national prestige of this or that country.

At this point Norstad alluded his Pasadena speech of last December and to thinking that lay behind it, that is, idea of NATO as the fourth atomic power.

UNCLASSIFIED

REPRODUCTION FROM THIS COPY IS PROHIBITED UNLESS EXCLUSIVELY

Foreign Service of the United States of America

OUTGOING

SECRET

Chancery

Classification

Control:

471

Page 3

Date:

Norstad touched on integration theme at end and while making clear that 300,000 US troops would not move out of Europe merely because de Gaulle says he is against principle of integration, nevertheless US military presence in Europe was firmly based on this principle as embodied in NATO military system.

Berlin touched on only briefly by Chancellor who described current East German measures as most serious challenge to date.

Norstad's over-all impression was that Adenauer remains essentially sound in his outlook on NATO and European problems and that in his relationship with de Gaulle his tactics are carefully designed to preserve the over-all benefits of the post-war Franco-German rapprochement without selling the Alliance or the United States down the river.

HOUGHTON

Typed in Communications

SMT 9/10/60

SECRET

Drafted By: Rutherford/

9/10/60

Shapley

REPRODUCTION FROM THIS COPY IS FORBIDDEN UNLESS EXPRESSLY AGREED