I. ABOUT THE COURSE

The course provides an introduction to the government and politics of Russia since the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991. Following a brief review of the country’s history under tsarist and then Soviet rule, it focuses on the dramatic changes of the last 20 years and the attempts in Russia to create a democratic political system and an economy based on free markets. It provides background into the major political and economic events of recent years—the Soviet collapse, attempts at economic reform, parliamentary and presidential elections, political crises. It also analyzes the problems of Russia’s transition, using concepts and techniques from comparative politics and political economy.

II. READINGS

A course reader containing some of the readings will be available for purchase from Academic Publishing at the UCLA Store. The other readings will be available online, as indicated below.

In addition, you are strongly encouraged to gain more familiarity with Russian politics and current events by regularly browsing the following internet sources:

- Russia Profile magazine, http://www.russiaprofile.org

III. REQUIREMENTS

Attendance at lectures and discussion sections is mandatory. The lectures will present new material, as well as setting the readings in context. You should read the readings listed before the associated lecture. There will be a take-home midterm and a take-home final exam. Both will require both knowledge of the material presented in readings and lectures and the ability to identify theories, assess evidence, and present convincing arguments. The midterm will count for 35% and the final exam for 45% of the course grade. Participation in discussion sections will count for 20%.

Academic Integrity

To all UCLA Students:

UCLA is a community of scholars. In this community, all members including faculty, staff and students alike are responsible for maintaining standards of academic honesty. As a student and member of the University community, you are here to get an education and are, therefore, expected to demonstrate integrity in your academic endeavors. You are evaluated on your own merits. Cheating, plagiarism, collaborative work, multiple submissions without the permission of the professor, or other kinds of academic dishonesty are considered unacceptable behavior and will result in formal disciplinary proceedings usually resulting in suspension or dismissal.

Forms of Academic Dishonesty

As specified in the UCLA Student Conduct Code, violations or attempted violations of academic dishonesty include, but are not limited to, cheating, fabrication, plagiarism, multiple submissions or facilitating academic dishonesty (see below for detailed definitions).

While you are here at UCLA, you may find yourself in a situation where cheating seems like a viable choice. You may rationalize to yourself that "Everyone else does it" Well, they don’t. And will that matter when YOU get caught? NO! If you are unsure whether what you are considering doing is cheating, just ask yourself ….. how would you feel if your actions were public, for anyone to see? Would you feel embarrassed or ashamed? If the answer is yes, that’s a good indicator that you are taking a risk and rationalizing it to yourself.

If after reviewing the information below, you are still unclear about any of the items – don’t take chances, don’t just take your well-intentioned friend’s advice – ASK your TA or your Professor. Know the rules - Ignorance is NO defense. In addition, avoid placing yourself in situations which might lead your TA or Professor to suspect you of cheating. For example, during an exam don’t sit next to someone with whom you studied in case your answers end up looking "too similar."

Alternatives to Academic Dishonesty

* Seek out help – meet with your TA or Professor, ask if there is special tutoring available.

* Drop the course – can you take it next quarter when you might feel more prepared and less pressured?

* Ask for an extension – if you explain your situation to your TA or Professor, they might grant you an extended deadline.

* See a counselor at Student Psychological Services, and/or your school, college or department – UCLA has many resources for students who are feeling the stresses of academic and personal pressures (please see below)

Remember, getting caught cheating affects more than just your GPA. How will you explain to your parents, family and friends that you have been suspended or dismissed? How will it affect your financial aid award and/or scholarship money? Will you be required to, and be able to pay back that money if you are no longer a student? If you live in the residence halls, where will you go if you are told you can no longer live there?

You have worked very hard to get here, so don’t cheat! If you would like more information, please come see us at the Dean of Students’ Office in 1206 Murphy Hall, call us at (310) 825-3871 or visit our Web site at www.deanofstudents.ucla.edu.

Cheating

- Unauthorized acquiring of knowledge of an examination or part of an examination
- Allowing another person to take a quiz, exam, or similar evaluation for you
- Using unauthorized material, information, or study aids in any academic exercise or examination – textbook, notes, formula list, calculator, etc.
- Unauthorized collaboration in providing or requesting assistance, such as sharing information
- Unauthorized use of someone else’s data in completing a computer exercise
- Altering a graded exam or assignment and requesting that it be regraded

Plagiarism

Presenting another’s words or ideas as if they were one’s own

- Submitting as your own through purchase or otherwise, part of or an entire work produced verbatim by someone else
- Paraphrasing ideas, data or writing without properly acknowledging the source
- Unauthorized transfer and use of someone else’s computer file as your own
- Unauthorized use of someone else’s data in completing a computer exercise

Multiple Submissions

Submitting the same work (with exact or similar content) in more than one class without permission from the instructor to do so. This includes courses you are currently taking, as well as courses you might take in another quarter

Facilitating Academic Dishonesty

Participating in any action that compromises the integrity if the academic standards of the University; assisting another to commit an act of academic dishonesty

- Taking a quiz, exam, or similar evaluation in place of another person
- Allowing another student to copy from you
- Providing material or other information to another student with knowledge that such assistance could be used in any of the violations stated above (e.g., giving test information to students in other discussion sections of the same course)

Fabrication

Falsification or invention of any information in an academic exercise
• Altering data to support research
• Presenting results from research that was not performed
• Crediting source material that was not used for research
